ARNIE NEWFIELD

HOLOCAUST SURVIVOR

in honor of International
Holocaust Memorial Day

Arnie will be sharing his experience of being a child during the Holocaust and how this experience affected his brothers for the rest of their lives. Arnie will also share with us his understanding of the significance of the day that was set aside by the United Nations to be an international day to honor the victims of the Holocaust and to remind the world of the dangers of hatred, bigotry, racism, and antisemitism. We will be observing this day a few days early on the Shabbat Evening before.

Arnold Newfield was born on February 27th, 1942 in Westerbork transit camp in Holland, the youngest of three boys at the time. Arnie's family left Vienna years prior after Kristallnacht upended their lives. Arnie's father was sent to Buchenwald from Westerbork, never speaking with Arnie about his experiences there. In March of 1944, Arnie, along with his two brothers and mother, was sent to Ravensbrück. Arnie's parents made a pact that after the war they would reunite in Holland. In March of 1945, Arnie and his family were shipped to Bergen-Belsen concentration camp from which they were liberated in April 1945. Arnie's brothers always carried with them the trauma from their experiences during the Holocaust and were never able to move past it. Arnie dedicates part of his testimony to sharing with young people the dangers of harboring resentment.
